the eventful period preceding its closing upon the declaration of war last August.

Each day of the past week registered the judgment of the financial world on events of far-reaching political as well as financial significance. Those who would get a line on the exact status of international matters are busily figuring, this week-end, upon the meaning of certain phenomena, which are variously interpreted. One point is agreed upon, that, aside from the war, conditions in the United States are surely, if slowly, mending. In the opinion of Henry Clews and Company, "We are now entering a period when agricultural conditions are a vital factor. Some of our crops

The books have deen closed in London on the Briti period when agricultural conditions are a vital factor. Some of our crops are likely to be late and their condition is not always as high as the exceptional averages of a year ago. The condition, however, is generally above the average and the acreage under cultivation is increased."

Compared With 1898.

An interesting comparison is drawn by some financiers, between the situation now and that in 1898, when, after with the Potomac Electric Power Com tion now and that in 1898, when, after suspense was removed, the market jumped back to a normal status. Then, it is pointed out, our markets were thoroughly sound after a thorough after-panic adjustment, because the country's industrial and financial situation was absolutely unimpaired. Bankers assert that every one of these favorers assert that every one of these favorable conditions exists today. Furthermore there is a banking system sow which insures the country against money panics or exorbitant interest

Marked improvement in the cotton industry added to the general optimism. New Bedford mills are running to capa-city and April cotton receipts at Kew

England points were nearly double those of April of last year.
Imports at New York during the week ending May 8 took another tumble, ac-cording to the Custom House report. The week's total inward movement was $16,636,882 as compared with $18,817,808 the As yet the possibility of this country becoming involved in the war has not proved disturbing to the steel trade, says the Iron Age. There are no cancellations or any other of the features that might be looked for in a grave-crisis. The situation, in fact, holds the strength gained in the past two months. War orders and other foreign business have figured so largely in the industry of late that the chance of more war does not cause alarm. Increased Home Demand.

A first effect would be an increased home demand in some lines, and deliverles on foreign orders would suffer. Russian rail and car requirements are of immediate interest.
